Moving away from the lively dusty city area of Kathmandu, we had to the western plains of Terai via flight to Nepalgunj. In Nepalgunj, trekkers can feel the temperature drastically increasing as they wait for their next flight to Jumla. As the place is situated close to the equator, it tends to be very hot during the day time. Nevertheless, we shall take a flight from Nepalgunj to Jumla where the actual trekking experience is thought to begin. After Jumla, we head towards Chere Chaurby walking along the Jugad Khola. Without a doubt, the main highlight of the entire trek is Rara Lake. Passing through rugged densely forested trek routes filled with blue pine trees, trekkers continue on with their trek towards Rara Lake. And so, we now go past Chalachaur, Sinja Valley, Ghorosingha and Ghattekhola respectively to arrive at Rara Lake the next day. Upon reaching Rara lake, trekkers can enjoy the mesmerizing view of the lovely Rara Lake which is also the largest lake inside Nepalese territories. Our itinerary suggest that we spend at least one day in the vicinity of Rara Lake to fully indulge ourselves with the pristine natural environment of Rara Lake which is also a haven for several living species ranging from fishes to insects to animals and birds. Next, we leave Rara Lake and tighten our shoe laces for another hike towards Pina village. Afterward, we shall cross GhurchiLagna Pass (3480m) before reaching Bumra village. From here, we head back to Jumla and take a flight back to Nepalgunj. Lastly, we again take a flight from Nepalgunj to Kathmandu where we are to end our trek.
